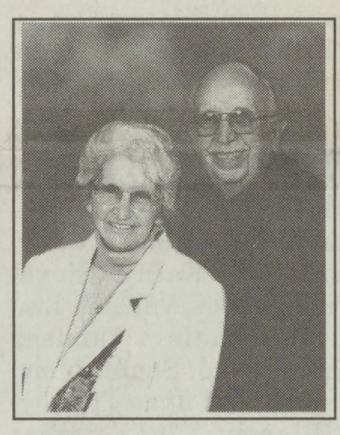
Ringing up its final sales

MIKE GORMAN (above), on the final day of business at Gorman's Stationery.
RIGHT: his parents, Dee and Dick Gorman



They had a good run.

A business that started out as a "sideline" for a West Sacramento couple in 1965 -- and then became part of the fabric of the city -- finally closed its doors last week.

Gorman's Stationery started selling supplies back when people needed things like "mimeograph paper," and it survived (becoming a Hallmark store) well into the era of Staples and other big-box office products retailers.

Founder Dick Gorman told the former "Sentinel" newspaper in 1986 that his main career was as an inventory worker for other companies. The stationery store came as a "sideline.":

"We finally opened the first store on 15th Street in West Sacramento after working out of our house for a few years. The inventory business is most active on weekends. I began getting really frustrated trying to get across the Tower Bridge on a Friday night to find office supplies. So we dedicated 15 feet of space, put up shelves and $200 worth of stock for the little sideline."

The store grew – moving to 1240 Merkley Avenue in 1975, and then nearby to 845 Jefferson Boulevard (at the La Bou center) more recently. It was a place to get paper, pens, envelopes and business supplies – adjusting its inventory as computers changed the business landscape and focusing on cards and gifts.

Dick became well-known in West Sacramento and has been active in the Kiwanis service club. Dee Gorman is an active local Soroptimist.

Son Mike Gorman has been a mainstay at the store in recent years. With some health troubles in the family, they have decided to retire the store a little earlier than planned.

Many West Sacramentans who depended on the store, grew up with it, or simply rooted for the family-owned shop during the changing economic times, will miss Gorman's.

Gang injunction in effect, again

The office of Yolo County District Attorney Jeff Reisig won a round in court on May 23, as Judge Kathleen White granted a request for a preliminary injunction against the Broderick Boys gang in West Sacramento. The injunction allows enforcement measures to go into effect against alleged gang members, while the merits of the injunction continue to be debated in court.

The injunction contains a curfew for those named as gang members, prevents them from associating with each other, and includes other measures designed to fight crime. The injunction is effective within an northern area of the city bounded by Harbor Boulevard to the west, the river to the north and east, and by the freeway to the south. The area doesn't include the new Rivers subdivision.

Civil rights and defense attorneys are arguing against the injunction.

Debra Luff, Dean of the West Sacramento Center, and Mary Leland, who works for the Los Rios Community College District and serves on the local school board, in front of an artist's conception of the new college building

They brought out the gold shovels again last Thursday, to turn over a few spadefuls of earth on a site along West Capitol Avenue near Merkley where a city college building will soon rise. The new building will eventually be part of a "civic center" complex that will include a new library building, a transit center and community center. The college center will face city hall and echo its architecture.

Mayor Christopher Cabaldon called the city college project "amazing," saying that West Sacramento, the Los Rios Community College District and other agencies had to work together and make things happen despite conflicting needs and tangled regulations.

"When three or four agencies come together like this, think about how many rules have to be bent and how much thinking has to happen 'outside the box,'" said Cabaldon.

He invoked an earlier era of city college classes in West Sacramento – a time before there was a dedicated facility of any kind, and the only college classes that local students or members of the workforce could sign up for were those available in the evening at the River City High School campus.

"Enrollment was declining," said Cabaldon. "The first impression was there was a lack of interest. But we didn't believe it, and (the college district) didn't believe it either. The real problem was there wasn't a 'pathway' – you could take a class or two, but you couldn't get an associate's degree" or pursue other cohesive programs, he said.

So the college district leased its own space on Halyard Drive and offered more classes. Enrollment boomed. The planned new three-story center on West Capitol will give it a chance to boom again.

"Right now, 2,000 students use our Halyard Drive space, and we plan to more than double that when this facility opens," said Debra Luff, dean of the West Sacramento Center.

Dr. Brice Harris, Chancellor of the Community College District, said the facility will be one of "a series of (regional) centers, instead of one full college campus."

"This is the second new center to come up out of the ground, to be followed by one in Davis and one in Elk Grove," said Harris. Placerville already has a college center.

"We decided to place these centers near mass transit so students don't have to buy a car and pump expensive gas. One of the things we hope to see in these centers is the ability of a young mother with two children and a full time job – she might have an inability to go full-time to Cosmunes College, but she might be able to drop the kids off and let Mom watch them for a couple of hours while she zips up to the West Sacramento Center and takes a class."

The centers are sited to try to place 95 percent of the Los Rios Community College District's residents within five miles of a college center, he added.

The new center is expected to open in 2010.

Warbirds visit Yolo airport —

Four American World War II-era airplanes will be on display from 10 a.m. to noon today at a Yolo County airport, the county's information officer announced yesterday.

Rare surviving examples of the P-51 Mustang fighter plane and the B-17, B-24 and B-25 can be viewed at the Yolo County Airport, 25170 Aviation Avenue, Davis.

The visit is part of the Collings Foundation Wings of Freedom Tour.

Rides are available, for a price. Call (800) 568-8924 for reservations or (530) 759-8766 for information.

Grass fire on 3 acres —

About three acres burned in a grass fire on May 24, fanned by "fierce" north winds, reports the West Sacramento Fire Department.

The fire occurred near Sacramento and Douglas Avenues, and jumped the Union Pacific Railroad tracks. Crews remained on the scene about five hours fighting the fire and preventing flare-ups. The cause of the fire is under investigation.

Same-sex marriage —

In the wake of a California Supreme Court ruling that would allow same-sex marriages, the state's Health and Human Service Agency has set a date for local counties to begin allowing the unions.

The Supreme Court has until June 16 to call for a re-hearing on the topic.

Counties, therefore, have been instructed to begin using revised new marriage license forms on June 17. The new forms will include same-sex marriages.

Yolo County's Clerk/ Recorder, Freddie Oakley, made news on Valentine's Day of 2007 by issuing "Certificates of Inequality" to same-sex couples, protesting the laws prohibiting such couples from being legally married.

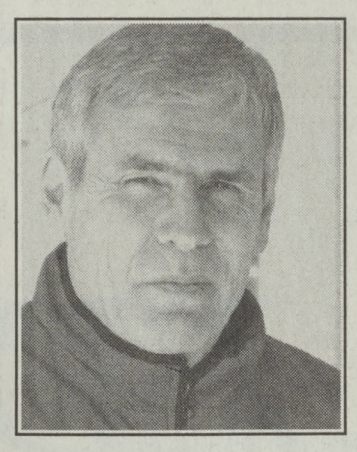
Ever have a dog who drove you crazy?

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

When my daughter was in her early 20s and moved out on her own, one of the first things she wanted to do was get her own dog. She was tired of sharing a series of family pooches (Nicky, Shadow and Mikey) with her three younger brothers and wanted one that she could call her very own. Unfortunately, the one she adopted at the SPCA turned out to be a two-year old, 20-pound black female terrier-mix destined to drive anyone who came in contact with her absolutely nuts. My daughter named her Suzie (Little Suze for long) and after spending only one night in my daughter's apartment, I received the following phone call:

"Dad, the information card they gave me at the SPCA said Little Suze was already potty-trained, but I don't think she is. Last night she had accidents all over the apartment and I'm still gagging from cleaning up after her. Plus she likes to jump up on everything and when I got up this morning she had completely trashed the place. What was left of a loaf of bread was scattered everywhere, parts of my carpet had been pulled up, she had scratched a whole bunch of paint off the inside of the front door, and she had even somehow managed to get all the way up on top of the refrigerator and eat a whole cake I had put up there to keep away from her."

Anyway, to make a long story short, not only did Little Suze go from bad to worse in terms of being a one-dog destruction derby, she also ended up being professionally diagnosed with psychological problems – doggie separation anxiety to be specific – apparently caused by "abandonment issues" when she was a puppy. A prescription of doggie Prozac helped a little, but since my daughter had a job and college classes to attend, it soon became obvious that Little Suze needed a home where she could receive constant attention. The final straw was when she once again somehow used a kitchen counter to jump up on top of the refrigerator for a late-night snack, this time of Easter candy. She ended up consuming over a pound of pure chocolate, which is very toxic to dogs and should have killed her. When the vets finished pumping her stomach, and when my daughter finished cleaning up all the chocolate doggie-barf spread throughout her apartment, she knew it was finally time to find Little Suze a better home, which she tearfully did. And that brings me to my little story.

My daughter, still convinced that life is much better with a dog around, talked her husband (also a dog-lover) into getting a chocolate lab puppy shortly after they were married. They named him Brownie, and he was just the opposite of Little Suze – calm and obedient and perfect around strangers and kids. Unfortunately, he was one of the numerous pets who died because of tainted dog food a year or so ago, and his passing was very difficult on everyone. But still sure that their two sons would greatly benefit from having a dog to grow up with, off my daughter's husband (Dallas) went in search of another chocolate lab puppy. And when he brought her home, the first question out of my mouth was, "Are you absolutely sure that is a chocolate lab?"

"Sure I'm sure," said Dallas. "She even has papers, but she was the runt of the litter so that's probably why she looks a little different."

"Well," I said, looking at the smallest chocolate lab puppy I had ever seen, "if you ask me, that's some kind of terrier-mix that someone has spray-painted brown."

"You better not let Carrie hear you say that," Dallas warned me with a smile, "because she's already in love with her!"

Within days, my worst suspicions began to be confirmed. Zoey, the little chocolate lab imposter, was not a bit like Brownie, the real chocolate lab. Instead, especially in terms of temperament, she was the clone of Little Suze, the crazy terrior-mix who had once cost my daughter countless dollars in veterinarian bills and visits to the doggie-psychologists at U.C. Davis. And things are not much better almost a year later.

"She's driving us all crazy," my daughter admitted a few days ago. "She chews everything in sight and that includes the boys' toys and my best shoes; she's constantly digging huge holes in the backyard, especially around the fences in an effort to get to other dogs in other yards; she jumps up on anyone who comes through our front door; you can't take her on a walk without being dragged all over the neighborhood; she's always underfoot and I can hardly take a step without tripping over her; she loves to roll around in the dirt and mud and then bring it inside with her; and worst of all, she sniffs out dead things – including rats — and brings them to me."

"Well," I said, "my brother says it usually takes a dog like Zoey about two years to completely settle down, but once they do, they're supposedly great pets."

"I sure hope you're right," said my daughter, "although there have been days when I've been so mad at her that I wasn't sure if she was going to see the next sunrise, much less her two-year old birthday."

"Is Dallas about ready to shoot her, too?"

"Oh no, he just feels bad for her."

"Why?"

"Because he thinks she's suffering from a lack of confidence and low self-esteem."

When I finished laughing, I asked my daughter if Zoey reminded her of Little Suze.

"A little I guess," replied my daughter. "But what she really reminds me of is a boyfriend you can't get rid of."

The 2007/08 NBA Championship is set to tip off on Thursday night in Boston between Kobe Bryant and his Los Angeles Lakers and the re-born Boston Celtics. All of the NBA Championship best of seven series will broadcast on ABC (ch.10) at 6 p.m. with Boston enjoying the home court advantage because of their better season record.

Well, the Boston Celtics beat the Lakers twice this year but that was before the Los Angeles acquired center Pau Gasol. The Celtics struggled during the playoffs to win on the road while the Lakers young bench players started to contribute to their success by playing tough basketball at on both ends of the court. This series has to makings of record breaking TV ratings with the East Coast Boston Celtics returning to greatness and West Coast Los Angeles Lakers back on top.

This year's match up will be very interesting but not like the old days when Larry Bird and Magic Johnson roamed the courts in their classic match-ups. I expect TV rating to reach record levels.

For the Celtics to win the title Boston "Three Party" will have to stop the League's MVP in Kobe Bryant which doesn't seam possible and for the Lakers to bring home their first title since the 2001/02 season their defense must harass Boston's outside shooters Ray Allen and Paul Pierce into bad shot selections.

Another key to victory for the Lakers will be the play of Pau Gasol who is capable of dominating the center position but the Lakers defenders have to work hard and hope Ray Allen or Paul Pierce doesn't catch fire and dominate the series. The Celtics best player Kevin Garnett is a stud and really can't be stopped but if you shut down his supporting cast, the Celtics are beatable.

So, who is going be the next NBA's champion? I'm really going to enjoy watching this classic match-up between the beasts of the East and the Hollywood stars of the West but as much as I dislike the Los Angeles Lakers, because I'm a Kings Fan, I'll take Kobe the Lakers in six games! Kobe will the MVP of the series!

Diamond Notes

The young Giants (25-33) continue to shuffle players around their 40-man roster and this week another rookie, Brian Horwitz, was called up Friday from Fresno and delivered a winning blow for the G-Men. Also, another young pitcher, Jonathan Sanchez, stepped to the plate for the Giants and homered in his own game to improve his season record to 4-3. Good news for Barry Zito (1-8) fans, he finally won his first game of the season avoiding the Giants record books by being the first pitcher to begin the season 0-9.

The A's (31-27), who trail the first place Angels by 3 games, will be at home this week hosting the Detroit Tigers and the L.A. Angels over the weekend while the Giants finish up their week hosting Mets before they hit the road to Washington on Friday.

The River Cats (36-22) finally return to Raley Field on Thursday night to play Portland after wrapping up their longest road trip (7-4) of the season on Tuesday in Colorado. Outfielder Carlos Gonzalez who was promoted to Oakland on Friday went 4 for 11, all doubles in Texas debut for the A's.

Between the Ropes

A sold-out crowd of 12,682 rock Arco Arena last Sunday as they cheered their local MMA heroes Urijah Faber and Mark Munoz on to victory. Urijah "California Kid" Faber retained his WEC featherweight (145 lbs.) title belt with a five-round unanimous decision over MMA legend Jens Pulver while Munoz knockout Chuck Grigsby in the first round of their light-heavyweight bout. Grigsby, who was knocked unconscious, left the arena on a gurney and was treated and released from a local hospital after the event.

But the big news was on Saturday night with the Mixed Martial Arts (MMA) sport making television history with the first live broadcast (free TV) of Elite XC's MMA event during prime time. The prime time show was broadcast live at 8 p.m. but the main event didn't hit the tube on the West Coast until 11:30 p.m. Some of the CBS programming was pre-empted in approximately 5 percent of the country due to coverage of the Children's Miracle Network Telethon. How's that work for TV ratings?

Anyway, the jury is still out on the results of their gamble to televise this brutal sport but you can bet your bottom dollar if the TV ratings are good that the FOX and NBC networks will follow suit giving viewers a choice between reruns of House and

Scam alert: fake call for jury

The Yolo County Superior Court reports hearing about a scam involving jury service.

Identity thieves reportedly call a citizen and claim the citizen failed to report for jury duty. The criminal then asks for personal information such as Social Security or credit card information, employment or other data needed to "clear up" the failure to appear.

This information could be used for fraud.

The court says real jury service personnel never ask for Social Security numbers, credit card numbers or other sensitive information. The scam has been reported in California and other states.

Man dies after Taser strikes in Woodland

Outside agencies are investigating the death of a former District Attorney's office intern who died in Woodland police custody on May 28.

The man, 44-year old Ricardo Manuel Abrahams, was reportedly attending law school at night, and had been a clerk in the Yolo district attorney's office.

He apparently became agitated and left a treatment facility in Woodland before police were summoned.

Police say he failed to comply, and used a Taser on him at least twice, according to published reports. Abrahams stopped breathing and later died.

Woodland police are investigating, with help from outside agencies including West Sacramento police.

The county coroner's office reports that an autopsy showed no fractures or "significant" trauma. Other tests are pending.

VETERANS ★ POST ★

Agent Orange and Hypertension

If you suffer from hypertension and believe it to be service-connected and related to Agent Orange, get ready to file your claim.

A 2006 Institute of Medicine report hinted that Agent Orange plays a role in the number of veterans having hypertension. The report, requested by Congress in the Agent Orange Act of 1991, was part seven of an ongoing study to determine the long-term health effects of exposure to Agent Orange. It added hypertension as a condition with "limited or suggestive evidence of association with exposure." Unfortunately, a committee couldn't agree, and hypertension was left in the "inadequate or insufficient evidence of an association" category.

Now it appears that the Department of Veterans Affairs is leaning toward accepting hypertension as a service-related illness. There's nothing on the VA site yet, but then it still has information dated 2003 and 2004.

At this point, no one is saying that all claims will be automatically approved, but the door is open. If your claim is filed and the VA decides to approve hypertension as a service-connected illness, you'll be that much ahead.

And you didn't have to be in Vietnam to be exposed to Agent Orange. A chart on the VA Web site lists Florida, Georgia, Arkansas, Indiana, Texas, Maryland, Hawaii and others as places where Agent Orange was used. This chart is 10 pages long and lists dozen of chemicals as well as the dates, including the original experiments to test Agent Orange as an herbicide, going back to the 1940s and 1950s.

To see the chart where Agent Orange was used, go to www.va.gov/agentorange and click on DoD Report on Herbicides Used Outside of Vietnam.

If you have hypertension and were at any of the locations where Agent Orange was used, file a claim.

VOLSTEAD LAW HAS NOT SHUT DOWN BOOZE IN WOODLAND

Woodland, Feb. 1.—Mrs. Lulu Clara Gray filed a divorce complaint in the superior court late yesterday against J. F. Gray of Woodland, an accountant and clerk.

Habitual intemperance is the ground for the divorce proceedings. The couple was married in El Paso, Texas, in 1911. They have resided in Yolo county for the past three years. There are no children and property interests have been settled out of court. Just a plain divorce is asked. There will be no contest. Hurst and Hurst are the attorneys.

The claim is made that Lake Louise in Canada will be dry in a thousand years.

How foolish.

Canada is now floating on a foundation of booze that brings millions of revenue from the United States.

HORST WAREHOUSE BURGLARIZED BY DRUG ADDICTS

Next Monday afternon at 2 p. m. Lewis B. Wells and George Dixon will have their preliminary examination in Judge Barry's court on the charge of having broken into the Horst warehouse in West Sacramento and stolen many valuables.

When arrested by the Sacramento police on descriptions furnished by Constable Buckingham they had several articles on their persons taken from the premises.

They were arrested by Detectives E. M. Brown, Frank McAllister and Verne Dill and taken to the city jail. With Dixon was Lewis P. Wells, believed to be his accomplice, in whose possession was found a quantity of children's clothing believed to have been stolen from the Weinstock-Lubin Co. store.

Dixon protested his innocence when arrested but upon being searched admitted the theft. The stamps were of denominations ranging from 3 to 50 cents. The arrests were made at Fifth and K streets.

Two motormeters were found in Lewis' possession, believed to have been stolen from automobiles. Both mare are said to be drug addicts.

JAPANESE WIN LAND SUIT FROM WEST SACRAMENTO OWNERS

Woodland, Jan. 28.—Judge Ernest Weyand of Colusa sititing in place of Judge Charles O. Busick, handed down a decision yesterday in the suit brought by four Japanese against J. H. Glide, P. C. Drescher, Charles H. Clocker and Charles Sutro, San Francisco, of the West Sacramento Land Company, in favor of the Japanese—granting judgment in the sum of $1157. The suit was recovery of the amount of judgment paid upon a contract of agreement on a lease for Yolo county agricultural land to run for a period of three years.

GROTE'S CITIZENSHIP IS QUESTIONED IN GHELFI'S APPLICATION

Failing to qualify to the satisfaction of Judge Anderson, John Grote, appearing last Mouday in Woodland as a witness for Peter Ghelfi, was the means of delaying the granting of citizenship to Ghelfi.

During many years Grote has exercised all the privileges of U. S. citizenship, having voted at all elections and registered whenever necessary.

He claimed that right because of his father's citizenship, who became a citizen of the U. S. and because Grote came to this country before he was 18 years of age.

The claim was made last Monday that he must produce his father's papers in order to qualify as a witness for Ghelfi.

Grote became indignant when questioned as to his own citizenship. He claimed to have been given papers. He later told Examiner Chester Ball and Judge William A. Anderson that his papers had been lost.

The court told Grote to submit proof of citizenship at another hearing on June 8th. On this date Gehlfi will take his examination if Grote can satisfy the examiner and Judge that he (Grote) is entitled as an American citizen to be a sponsor or witness.

HARRIS MADE GENERAL PASSENGER AGENT

J. J. Harris, Sacramento-Northern station agent in Woodland, has been promoted to be general passenger agent for the company at Sacramento. Although his offices will be in the capital city, he will retain his home here and join the commuters.

John L. Sullivan, of no kin to the illustrious prize fighter of that name, is coming here from Sacramento to succeed Harris. He made a most favorable impression.

Harris' promotion is a deserved one. He has established a big shipping as well as pasesnger trade here for his company. In his new position he wil have a much broader field and more important responsibilities.

PAPPAS GIVEN STAY OF EXECUTION UNTIL FEBRUARY 8

Woodland, Jan. 29.—At the request of his attorney, Harry Huston, Gus Pappas was given a stay of execution until February 8 by Judge Harrison yesterday. At the expiration of that time he must begin serving a sentence of three months in the Yolo county jail.

Following his incarceration, Judge Harrison will make an order for the destruction of seventy odd barrels of wine, about 2800 gallons, seized at the time of the arrest of the Pappas brothers.

S. P. EMBANKMENT STRENGTHENED AGAINST EROSION

Carpenters and concrete workers have been strengthening the S. P. embankment under the lower end off the approach to the bridge during the past week.

This became necessary of late because surface water was washing away the foundation and if permitted to continue might result in breaks in the concrete surfacing of the bridge.

One more necessary improvement that should be made at this point is the widening of the entrance to the approach.

It would cost little and be of great benefit to travelers, especially strangers who are not acquainted with the roadway.

OPINION

NEWS-LEDGER EDITORIAL

A gentleman of the West Sac 'Old Guard'

We're going to miss Mr. Williams.

William E. Williams lived on Rockrose Road in West Sacramento for many years, before finally succumbing to medical troubles last month. He was just a bit of a "fixture" on the News-Ledger's pages. As a matter of fact, he was one of the more regular contributors to this page.

Projects and politicians would come and would go in the city. News cycles would run themselves out. Seasons would change. But year in, year out, we would never go too long without hearing from him. It would be just about the time that we would be wondering why we hadn't received a letter from Mr. Williams in a while, when in he would come through the front door, bearing a fresh white envelope.

In the early days of the present News-Ledger regime – about 20 years ago – Mr. Williams delighted in telling us how wrong we were in our perception of West Sacramento's development choices. As the years went by, any hint of rancor, if there was any to begin with, had disappeared. Mr. Williams continued to furnish the occasional letter, always delivering them in person and usually with an extra minute or two on this errand to stick around and chat.. He had become a friend.

One of our favorite moments of "dark humor" for West Sacramento was delivered nearly 20 years ago by a journalist across the river. You have to remember that West Sacramento was a bit more blighted, then, and still utterly lacking in signs of a coming redevelopment. It was a place best known for run-down motels and streetwalkers

. The journalist – an award-winning fiction writer who used to pen a column in the Bee – was musing, in a column, about taking off from Sacramento's airport. He was rambling about his fear of flying (more accurately, his fear of crashing) as he looked out his airliner's window. And he pictured the plane falling from the sky onto West Sacramento's business district below.

The crash "could cause damage into the hundreds of dollars," mused the columnist.

This was an insult not to be brooked.

Shortly afterwards, a letter in the Bee showed up with the byline of William E. Williams, defending the honor of his hometown.

The rebuttal made perfect sense, coming from Mr. Williams. After all, West Sacramento was where his heart was.

Letters to the Editor

Westin for School Board

California State Employees Association has made an unprecedented move of endorsing Mr. David Westin extremely early in the election process. Most endorsements are issued in late summer or early fall for the November election, but the Riverview Chapter of CSEA has issued their strong support for Mr. David Westin early on.

The Riverview Chapter of the California State Employees Association which represents over 300 Washington Unified School District employees strongly believes that Mr. David Westin has acted in the best interests of the school district. We believe that he will continue to serve the citizens of West Sacramento with dignity and respect. Mr. David Westin has been a strong voice on the Board for fairness for all. We are excited to endorse Mr. Westin early in the process and encourage our other union brothers and sisters to join us in ensuring that Mr. David Westin is re-elected to the Washington Unified School District Board of Education.

"The Chronicles of Narnia: Prince Caspian"

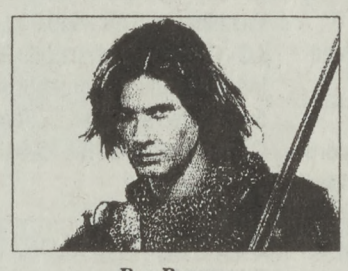
Running time: 144 minutes
MPAA rating: PG

It's been only a year since the Pevensie children (Peter, Susan, Edmund and Lucy) left the magical kingdom of Narnia, but when they are summoned back from London, 1,300 years have passed. The Narnia they knew is in ruins; their old friends dead. The kingdom has been usurped by the cruel Telemarines, an evil group of humans who speak with thick Spanish accents and are ruled under the iron fist of Lord Miraz.

Enter into the mix Prince Caspian (Ben Barnes), the nephew of Miraz and rightful heir to the throne. Miraz's plot to kill Caspian fails. The young prince flees into the wilds of Narnia, befriends some magical creatures and blows a magical horn summoning the Pevensies. Together they form an alliance to defeat the evil lord and return Narnia back to its former glory.

"Prince Caspian" does have its moments. The action sequences are awesome; the art direction is beautiful to behold. But the movie is just too bloated with a vast stretch of talkie parts that don't really add to the movie. It takes nearly an hour to get to the first real action set piece, the storming of Miraz's castle. After that, the movie kicks into gear and is pretty fun to watch. The final battle, while not up to the spectacle of "The Lord of the Rings," is thrilling to watch.

The performances by the four lead children, William (Peter) Moseley, Georgie (Lucy) Henley, Skandar



Ben Barnes

(Edmund) Keynes and Anna (Susan) Popplewell, are brilliant. They truly brighten the screen and add a much-needed human element to a film thick with computer-generated characters.

I really wanted to be blown away by "Prince Caspian," but despite the greatness of the final half of the film, getting to the meat of it is just too big a chore. Wait for the DVD and fast-forward to the good stuff.

Q. My roommate told me that Jimmy Fallon is going to replace Conan O'Brien on the "Late Show." Is that true? If so, where will Conan be going? He's not leaving late-night television, is he? — Justine B., via e-mail

A. Jimmy Fallon will indeed be filling Conan O'Brien's very big shoes come 2009 — that is when Conan will be taking over hosting duties from Jay Leno on "The Tonight Show." Jimmy is ready for the challenge, as he told reporters that he recently hit the stand-up circuit again to hone his comedic talents in front of a live audience. "I'm very excited about this," Jimmy said. "It's going to be a grind, but I'm ready to work really hard."

Q. Years ago I saw a show that was in the mood/theme of "The Twilight Zone" or an Alfred Hitchcock thriller. The setting is a prison. One of the prisoners works in the prison morgue. He becomes good friends with the undertaker. The prisoner makes a deal with the undertaker to help him escape. When the next prisoner dies, he will sneak into the casket with the body. Then after they bury the prisoner, the undertaker will come back and dig him up and, voila — he is a free man!

When the bell rings in the prison chapel to signal a recent death, the prisoner gets into the casket with the dead body, is carried out to the graveyard and is buried. He waits and waits for the undertaker to dig him up. Nobody comes. Finally, he finds a match and lights it to see that the undertaker is the dead person who is in the casket with him! — J.A. in Texas

A. I knew exactly what you were talking about by the fourth sentence. I remember seeing that episode as a kid, and it has stuck with me ever since. The show is "Alfred Hitchcock Presents," and the episode was called "Final Escape." The 1955 version can be found on DVD. The revamped 1985 version (which is the one I remember) can be seen on the cable/satellite network called Chiller.

Q. Will "Dog the Bounty Hunter" be back on A&E anytime soon? — Sheila, Port Charlotte, Fla.

A. In May, A&E announced that "Dog the Bounty Hunter," starring Duane "Dog" Chapman, would resume production and return to the small screen starting June 25. At first, reruns will air, followed a few weeks later by new episodes.

Q. Are actors Bryan Brown and Rachel Ward still married? How did they meet? — W.H. Cooper, Decatur, Ala.

A. Bryan and Rachel met on the set of 1983's "The Thorn Birds," where he played Luke O'Neill, Meggie's (Rachel's character) husband during an unhappy three-year marriage. Things have gone much better for the couple in real life, however, as they married in April 1983, have three children and remain together and happy today.

The Assassin's Accomplice: Mary Surratt and the Plot to Kill Abraham Lincoln

by Kate Clifford Larson
(Basic Books, $26)
Reviewed by Larry Cox

Mary Surratt earned her place in American history books on the afternoon of July 7, 1865, when less than three months after the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln, she became the first woman executed by the United States government.

When Kate Clifford Larson, a historian and author of the celebrated biography of Harriet Tubman, began researching her latest book, she assumed that Mary Surratt was a minor participant in the plot to kill the president. She was wrong. She quickly discovered that Andrew Johnson was probably correct when he described Surratt as the woman who kept the nest that hatched the egg.

Although there have been countless books written about the Lincoln assassination, most of the attention has been focused on John Wilkes Booth and three of his accomplices, Lewis Payne, David Herold and George Atzerodt. Historians have generally portrayed Surratt as a 43-year-old widow, devout Catholic, boardinghouse owner and Confederate sympathizer who just happened to be at the wrong place at the wrong time with the wrong people. It took Larson's meticulous research to finally connect the dots and show just how deeply she was involved.

Following the murder, Mary Surratt became one of the most hated people in the country. Her lawyers were green and unprepared, and her trial before a military commission was a foregone conclusion. The one person who might have saved her, her son, John, hid in Canada while both the trial and execution unfolded.

Using interviews, confessions and court testimony, Larson provides an insightful, fresh perspective on America's most famous murder. "The Assassin's Accomplice" is historical reporting at its very best.

Baked Blueberry Cheesecake Dessert

Here is a special treat you can serve to Dad on his special Sunday.

- 3 cups frozen unsweetened blueberries
- 1 cup Splenda Granular
- 12 (2 1/2-inch) graham cracker squares
- 2 (8-ounce) packages Philadelphia fat-free cream cheese
- 1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup Land O Lakes no-fat sour cream
- 2 eggs or equivalent in egg substitute
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

In a medium bowl, combine 2 cups frozen blueberries and 1/2 cup Splenda. Allow to set on counter until blueberries thaw, stirring occasionally.

Preheat oven to 325 F. Spray a 9-by-9-inch cake pan with butter-flavored cooking spray. Evenly arrange 9 graham crackers in prepared cake pan. In a large bowl, stir cream cheese with a sturdy spoon until soft. Add remaining 1/2 cup Splenda, flour, sour cream, eggs and vanilla extract. Mix well using a wire whisk. Fold in remaining 1 cup frozen blueberries. Evenly spread batter over "crust." Crush remaining 3 graham crackers. Evenly sprinkle crumbs over top of filling. Bake for 45 minutes or until a knife inserted in center comes out clean. Place cake pan on a wire rack and allow to cool for 15 minutes.

Refrigerate both cheesecake and thawed blueberry mixture for 2 hours. Cut dessert into 8 servings. For each serving, place 1 piece of dessert on a dessert plate and spoon about 1/4 cup blueberry mixture over top.

Mixed Grill

- 1/2 cup orange marmalade
- 2 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon fresh rosemary, or 1 teaspoon dried rosemary leaves, chopped, crushed
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 6 fully cooked bratwurst, knockwurst or frankfurters
- 1 (3 1/2-pound) chicken, cut into quarters
- Tomato wedges, for garnish

1. In small bowl, mix orange marmalade, lemon juice, rosemary and salt.

2. Cut a few slashes in each bratwurst to prevent them from bursting while cooking.

3. Place chicken quarters on grill over medium heat; cook until golden on both sides, about 10 minutes. Then to avoid charring, stand chicken pieces upright, leaning one against the other. Rearrange pieces from time to time and cook until fork-tender and juices run clear when pierced with knife, about 25 minutes longer. During last 10 minutes of cooking, place bratwurst on same grill. Brush chicken quarters and bratwurst frequently with orange-marmalade mixture.

CONSENT AGENDA

There are no items on the Consent Agenda.

REGULAR AGENDA

1. Public Workshop on Raley Field Entertainment Venue Conditional Use Permit No. 07-08 and Planned Development Permit Modification (Tilley)

This item is a public workshop on the proposed Raley Field Entertainment Venue consisting of an open-air entertainment facility that would cover approximately 16,600 square feet and allow for capacity crowds of approximately 3,500 guests. The facility would include a stage, backstage facilities, luxury suites, box seats, concessions stands, and restrooms. The stage itself would be approximately 40 feet by 40 feet with sound wings on each side and covered by a canopy. A wall would be constructed along Third Street to attenuate sound from the facility. While concerts would be the primary event that draws larger volumes of patrons to the proposed entertainment facility, the facility would also be used for private rentals which are already held within Raley Field at the location of the proposed facility. A conditional use permit is required for the entertainment venue as it is considered to be outdoor recreation. In addition, the existing planned development permit for Raley Field will be modified so that a total of fifty non-baseball events may be held in both facilities combined. Presently as many as fifty non-baseball events are allowed to occur in Raley Field. A Mitigated Negative Declaration has been prepared on the project in compliance with CEQA Guidelines. APPLICANT: River City Stadium Management, LLC; 400 Ballpark Drive, West Sacramento, CA 95691. OWNER: River City Land Holding Company LLC; 400 Ballpark Drive, West Sacramento, CA 95691.

2. Public Hearing on Ordinance 08-8 Regarding A Proposed Sign Ordinance Regarding Temporary Offsite Real Property Signs (White)

Civil Code 713 mandates that local jurisdictions allow off-site signs for the sale, lease or exchange of real property. The ordinance addresses the inconsistency between the City's sign ordinance and State law (Civil Code 713) regarding offsite real property signs. A Negative Declaration has been prepared on this item.

3. Public Hearing on Primafuel Biodiesel Manufacturing and Liquid Bulk Storage Terminal Conditional Use Permit (Bermudez)

This is a request to operate a biodiesel manufacturing facility and biofuel storage terminal at the Port of Sacramento, California. The proposed site is comprised of 12.2 acres located south of Industrial Boulevard on the western portion of the Port of Sacramento. This project will construct twelve, 110-foot diameter storage tanks; twenty, 35-foot diameter storage tanks; six 18-foot diameter storage/process tanks; and ten 12-foot diameter storage/process tanks. Additionally, the facility will contain a 480 square foot office/maintenance building, bulk liquid loading/unloading facility, and vapor recovery unit. The project will construct two new rail spurs for unloading and loading and up to 10 overhead pipelines approximately 1500-feet in length will be required for the transfer of multiple products between the bulk storage and Berth 5. The manufacturing of the biodiesel includes pretreatment units that will perform degumming and neutralizing of raw oils. A Mitigated Negative Declaration has been prepared for the project in accordance with the California Environmental Quality Act Guidelines. OWNER/APPLICANT: Primafuel Inc. 2774 Dawson Avenue, Signal Hill, CA 90775.

4. Public Workshop on proposed General Plan Amendment and Rezone of 2300 Jefferson Boulevard (GPA 08-01, REZ 08-01) (Powderly)

This item is a public workshop to discuss a proposal to change the General Plan Designation and Zoning Designation for 0.59± acres at 2300 Jefferson Boulevard. The property is located at the southwest corner of the intersection of Jefferson Boulevard and Devon Avenue, APN 46-010-48. The property's current General Plan Designation is LR, Low Density Residential; the current Zoning Designation is R-1-A, Residential One Family. The applicant proposes to change the General Plan Designation to RMU, River Mixed Use; and change the Zoning Designation to MU, Mixed Use. APPLICANT & OWNER: Lou Arges, 5010 Jefferson Boulevard, West Sacramento, CA 95691.
